

Canadensis Methodists Break Ground For New Addition

Sixty Year Members In Ceremonies

Members of the Canadensis Methodist Church gathered yesterday afternoon to break ground for a new Sunday School building.

Mrs. Mami Stewart and Mrs. May Seese, two ladies who have been members of the congregation for the past sixty years, officiated at the ground breaking.

Also participating in the service were Rev. Claude Heilenman, pastor of the church; Rev. Charles W. Killo, district superintendent of the North District of the Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Church; Rev. Harold MacMurray, pastor of Mount Airy Methodist Church and Rev. George Weinland of the Canadensis Moravian Church.

The ceremonies were preceded by an organ recital given by Gail Young, the church organist and a vocal number by Betty Hoke and Glenna Starnes.

Present in the audience were a number of members who were a part of the congregation when the present church building was erected in 1916.

Accommodations for three large classrooms will be available in the new Sunday School unit which, it is expected, will fill the requirements of the community for the next 50 years.

A program to secure funds for the new building was begun just two years ago this month.

More than $20,000 in pledges and gifts has been raised since that time.

The Sunday school building will cost "around $35,000" to build, however, church officials estimated.

Site of the new unit will be on the present church property, as an addition to the larger church building.

As a part of its building drive, the church will also undergo extensive alterations and repairs. Plans now are to enlarge the seating capacity of the church by about 20 per cent, Rev. Heilenman said.

New pews, altar furniture and carpeting will also be added to the church, making the sanctuary "one of the most beautiful" in this area, church officials declared.

Johnstown Woman Named To Mrs. America Contest

Johnstown, Pa. (AP) — A 23-year-old Johnstown woman who is as much at home in the kitchen as she is on a beach will represent Pennsylvania in the "Mrs. America" contest Sept. 7 at Asbury Park, N.J.

Judges, who did not choose a second or third place winner, watched the contestants fry chicken before observing them in evening gowns and bathing suits.

With her husband looking on, Mrs. Wicks won her second contest of the week. Last Wednesday she won the right to enter the state contest by being named "Mrs. Johnstown."

Mrs. Wicks has been married two years, she has no children. A striking brunette, she is five feet, six inches tall. She weighs 126 pounds, has a 26-inch waist, a 36-inch bust and 36-inch hips.

A Lily of the Nile, a beautiful rare blue flower, is about to bloom with seven spikes, at the home of Mrs. Lewis Heckman. Two years ago it had six spikes which bloomed, and several years ago at the first time of blooming it had three.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Heller attended the flower show in Tannersville Wednesday night, after which they visited Mrs. Audrey Starnes and family.

Miss Audrey Hamblin took her niece and nephews on a two day trip to New York City, where they visited many points of interest, and enjoyed several main events. Tuesday morning they left by train for the city, and registered there at the McAlpine Hotel. In the afternoon they took a boat ride around the city. They had planned on going to see the Yankees play baseball at an evening game, but it was rained out, so they went to see "Ivanhoe" instead. On Wednesday, they saw "Robin Hood", and then went to the Yankee game in the afternoon, and had dinner at the Commodore. Miss Hamblin's young charges included David, Billy, Betsy and Danny Hamblin and they were joined by Robert Heise on their arrival in New York, who accompanied them during their activities there.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ebert and Mrs. Anna Rausel of East Stroudsburg, motored to Atlantic City last week.

Lewis Calls Memorial Holiday

John L. Lewis served notice of a "national memorial period" Saturday which will halt actual production of coal between Aug. 23 and Sept. 1 inclusive.

In a bulletin bearing the official seal of the United Mine Workers of America, Lewis cited as reasons for the "memorial" work stoppage the West Frankfort mine disaster last Christmas which took a toll of 119 miners and continued failure on the part of some mine managers to meet safety requirements set down by Federal mine inspectors.

Violations of the Federal Mining Code, the bulletin pointed out now number 32,256 — 29,007 of which were "repeat" violations.

A "repeat" violation is one in which the mine owner has been warned by inspectors to take precautionary measures against explosion, cave-in or other matters injurious to the welfare of the men working in the body of the mine, and have failed to comply.

The notice states specifically that "all work of construction, installation, sinking and repair will continue as usual."

Informed Voters Are Needed Now

ML Carmel, Pa. (AP) — A plea for better informed voters was made yesterday by Robert E. Woodside, State Attorney General, at a homecoming celebration in nearby Gordon, Schuylkill County.

In a speech Woodside called the uninformed voter at the polls as useless as the one who stays home.

"Careful thought and discriminating selection must accompany the casting of the ballot. It is the duty of every citizen to not only vote but to vote intelligently," he said.

Specialists Will Make Over 165 Indian Towns

New Delhi, (AP) — Eighty specialists completed their training yesterday for the big task of transforming 165 Indian villages into modern self-supporting communities.

Prime Minister Nehru urged them to undertake the three-year reconstruction scheme with the "fire and zeal of a crusader in a great and noble cause."

Fifty-five projects are involved in the community development program affecting a rural population of 12 million persons whose ancient farm practices and equipment have kept them near starvation.

The United States has contributed 54 million dollars to the program. The money will be used to supply fertilizer, control locusts, provide iron and steel to make farm implements and train rural workers as specialists to direct the remaking of the villages.

Martin Warns Of Perilous Threats Here

Canonsburg, Pa., (AP) — "We have reached a time of great peril to American freedom" and are "threatened by enemies abroad and by moral deterioration at home," Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.) said Saturday.

In a speech at the 200th anniversary celebration of the birth of the Rev. Dr. John McMillian, pioneer Southwestern Pennsylvania minister, Martin pleaded for "individual freedom and tolerant religion." He declared:

"In these critical times we need men with the spiritual stamina and moral leadership of Dr. McMillian to preserve freedom of the individual against the creeping paralysis of false security."

Increase In College Of Cardinals

Vatican City (AP) — A new report that Pope Pius XII is nearing a decision on renewing the membership of the Roman Catholic church's badly depleted College of Cardinals appeared yesterday on the Roman press.

The usually reliable, Il Tempo said that the pontiff, now at his summer place in Castel Gandolfo, "is carrying to completion his studies for the grand reform of the sacred college and the high hierarchy of the church."

According to these reports, the newspaper said, the pontiff's studies consider giving all nations a seat in "the senate of the church."

The death of Michael Cardinal Von Faulhaber of Munich last June reduced to 46 the number of living princes of the church.

Thousands Attend First Cooperative Fair At Pocono Pines

Profit Found Sans Wheels Of Fortune

Pocono Pines — Nature tried hard to put the damper on this community's annual cooperative fair but rain-drenched residents refused to abandon their plans.

When the rain broke out Saturday morning, members of the celebration's planning committee decided the "only thing to do" was to move everything they could inside the Tollyhanna Township School gymnasium.

From that point on, until the skies cleared in mid-afternoon, Pocono Pines housewives were kept busy selling pies, cakes, home-made materials and handicrafts to an audience that "just wouldn't stop coming" rain or no rain.

First event forced inside was the scheduled Saturday morning "bake sale"—a display of home-baked breads, cakes and pies which almost proved too successful for the housewives' own good.

This is what happened. On Friday, tables loaded with the fragrant cakes and breads were situated at good vantage points on the fair site.

Visitors to the fair began asking to make purchases. The first thing most of the housewives knew, the tables were nearly empty.

So when the fair closed shortly before midnight—most of the Pocono Pines women put their empty plates and cake containers back in the baskets, went home, fired up the ovens and began baking again.

Between midnight Friday night and the time of the bake sale Saturday morning (10 a.m.) the wives had baked enough batter and dough, rolled enough piecrust and cut enough cookies to refill the barren tables.

When the customers began to arrive, there was plenty to satisfy everyone.

This incident was only one of a series which illustrates that the residents of the community themselves were dedicated to the proposition that the fair was to be a successful one.

Rain did succeed in postponing most of the children's games which had been scheduled for early Saturday morning.

By mid-afternoon, however, the younger set was busily competing in three-legged races, potato-sack races and "break-the-balloon" games.

Running and jumping on the school grounds, most of the contestants ended up with two things in common—they were all given prizes or candy and each of them was a likely candidate for a bathtub.

If the rain and mud failed to deter the younger set, it added something of a zest to the adult contests.

Mr. and Mrs. Griswold Dolson, Pocono Lake Preserve, triumphed over 30 other teams in a slippery duel with raw eggs to win the "egg-throwing contest."

Doffing its collective hat to the aggressiveness of the female (weaker sex), the fair awarded its most humorous prizes to the winner and the "victim" in a mammoth "rolling-pin hurling" competition.

Winner in this event was Mrs. Anna Mae Clark. Mrs. Clark received a certificate for a box of candy.

Her husband was given the sympathy of the prize committee and a bunch of flowers.

Champion in the woman's buck-sawing contest was Elora Keiper. Second place went to Rachel Henning, third to Maude Keiper, fourth to Phyllis Morrison (a non-resident who had had no previous training) and fifth to Sadie Shadler.

In the men's log-sawing contest, the Warner family, whose members have been consistent winners in local and State competitions, continued to sweep the field.

First prize went to Robert Warner and Bill Wildrick (who went to State last year); second, Albert and Bert Warner; and third to Robert Jr. and Jay Warner.

Virtually the only event slated as a part of the fair to suffer because of the rain was the pet show.

Many younger contestants did not bring their pets out in the torrential downpour. Mrs. James G. Kitchen said, and the turnout was lower than expected.

When the "show" was over, Judges J. Gordon and Griswold Dolson awarded the following prizes:

George Franks, first prize, rabbits; Harvey Keiper, first dog, and Gerald Keiper, first, pigeons.

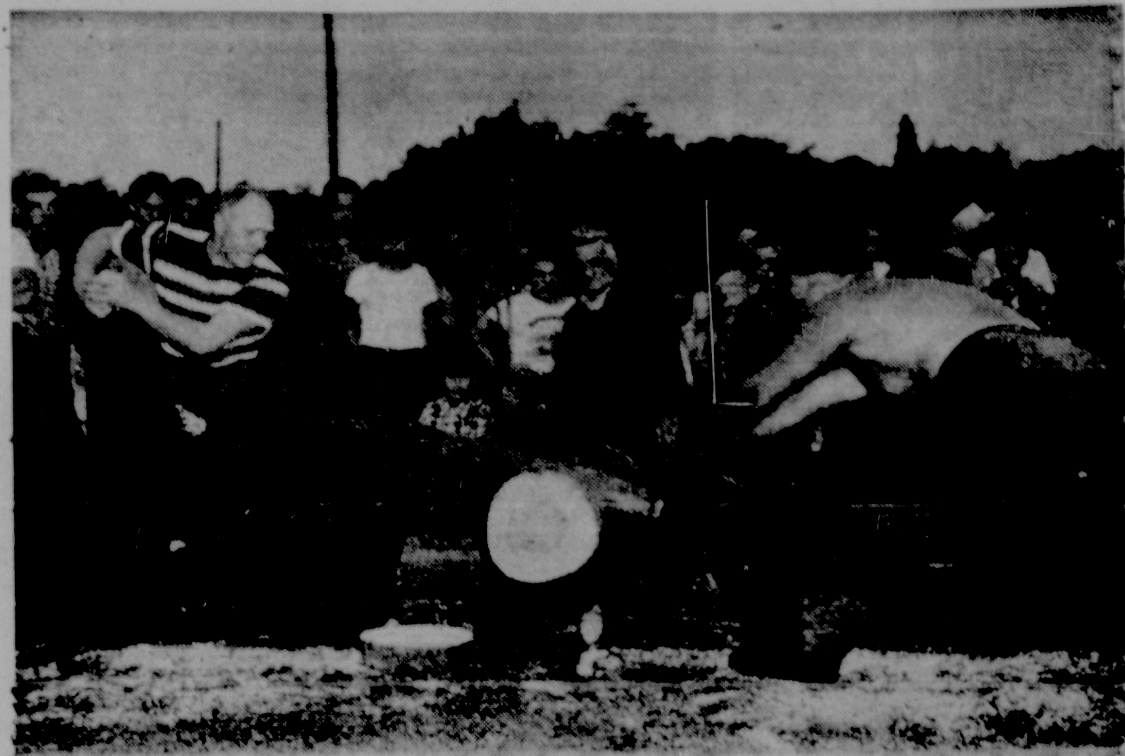

In one of the fair's most unusual events—a baking contest open to both boys and girls—the judges came up with some surprises.

Three of the first four prize-winners in the cake contest, the judges decided, were boys.

As the women in the audience smiled indulgently, the judges announced the following prizes:

Cakes — Gerald Keiper, first; Glenmore Hayes, second; Terry Altomose, third and Carol Ann Altomose, fourth.

Pies — Wilson Bonser, first; Jo-

LET 'ER RIP, BOYS! Log-sawers Robert Warner Sr. and William Wildrick came in first in the men's event at the Pocono Pines fair. The Warner family, represented by "Pop," Albert, Bert, Robert Jr. and Jay Warner made a clean sweep of the contest. They're all old hands at it by now, though. Mr. Warner and his sons have consistently won local contests and placed high in state competitions. (Daily Record photo)

NO ORDINARY GAME OF CATCH these couples are tossing eggs back and forth in an "egg-throwing" contest at the Pocono Pines fair. Winners were Mr. and Mrs. Griswold Dolson, Pocono Lake Preserve. They beat 30 other teams to win the competition—egg beaters, so to speak. (Daily Record photo)

Polio Strikes Twice At Saylorsburg Where Home Is Quarantined Officially

Polio struck twice at a Saylorsburg home where two young sisters were lying ill yesterday.

Mrs. Francis Fox remained in the quarantined home watching Lonnie, 9, and Carol, 8, for the first signs of paralysis. Standing watch with her was Mrs. Fox's mother, Mrs. Loraine Parnell.

The two are keeping a 24-hour vigil, relieving each other for eating and snatches of sleep, after receiving instructions from Dr. Frank E. Halstead, Anzelmink, to notify him immediately of any evidence of paralysis.

Lonnie was first to show symptoms of the disease. She complained of a sore throat and pain in her neck Sunday night a week ago.

According to her mother, Lonnie was treated for the symptoms by a physician. She had a fever Monday and Tuesday, felt "fine" by Thursday, but on Friday told Mrs. Parnell, "Granny, I just don't feel good," and lay down in a groggy condition on a couch.

The child was taken to Dr. Halstead. Mrs. Fox said exhaustive tests were made and spinal fluid was tapped. She was told the following morning that the child had polio.

Saturday, Carol got up in the morning with a 103.5 temperature and many of the same symptoms her sister had shown. She also was tested, and diagnosed as a polio case by Dr. Halstead, Mrs. Fox said.

Mrs. Fox said she was told Lonnie very probably will have paralysis in some degree. Until that happens, she will remain at home under her mother's care.

When, or if paralysis hits, the child will go to St. Luke's hospital in Bethlehem, Mrs. Fox said.

Because of the early treatment of Carol, the younger sister may avoid paralysis, Mrs. Fox was told. For the time being, it's "watching every minute, every minute," Mrs. Fox said.

The home was placed under quarantine Saturday by Walter May, health officer.

Tire Blowout Causes Wreck

Mount Pocono — A tire blowout resulted in a car hitting a telephone pole at 1:10 a.m. yesterday on Fairview Ave. here. The driver was Ernest B. Lumley, 24, Wilkes-Barre, according to Mount Pocono State police. The car was going around a curve at the time, police said. Damage of $400 was done to the right side of the auto. There were no injuries.

Three Hurt In Three Car Collision

Effort — A three-car collision on Effort Mountain at 10:15 a.m. Saturday resulted in injuries to three children in one of the cars.

They were daughters Caroline, seven, Pat, nine and Marcella, five, in the car driven by their father, Michael Lukasavage, 37, Newark. The children suffered cuts on the lips and face, and Marcella had some front teeth knocked out. Brodheadville State police said the father elected to have the girls treated by his family physician.

Police said a car driven north on Route 115 by Frank J. Borek, 18, Philadelphia, pulled out to pass another car. There was fog at the time, police said, and visibility was impaired.

Berlin (AP) — The Russian sector has mobilized a huge band of informers to catch anyone selling fruit, vegetables and other foods to West Berliners.

The drive is part of an all-out campaign to dry up food sources for West Berlin and force the isolated area to exert an ever-mounting drain on Allied resources.

The crackdown in the East sector was disclosed by the Communist city regime itself today. Its office for information said nine food handlers had been fined for selling their products to persons who lacked ration cards. All East sector persons possess them.

U. S. Safety Awards

Governor Fine has been notified by Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, that Pennsylvania has taken first prize for all-around traffic safety activities within a group of states of comparable size and traffic problems—California, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas.

In addition, the Keystone State has won special awards for achievement in its system of driver-licensing and in its program of school traffic safety education.

The staffs, public and private, which have been pushing these safety programs are deserving of the highest commendation; and we are privileged to extend our congratulations.

The greater the acknowledgement of achievement, the more compelling becomes the challenge toward greater effort.

Pennsylvania can hold this high position through the further activities of those who conduct the safety programs. The state can hold even a higher position in making the programs bring greater results in lowering the outrageous death and injury toll now taken on our highways.

The ultimate challenge rests with all the people of Pennsylvania. To be instructed and not to take heed is foolish, indeed. And in the accounting, we appear to be very, very foolish, if not downright callous.

John Gunther wrote a book entitled "Inside USA" in 1947. In it he said this: "Harry S. Truman's single most valuable quality is his knack of picking good men . . . His greatest asset is that he knows what he doesn't know, and his highest virtue is humility".

Our Motoring Guests

Research conducted by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, in connection with the Federal Bureau of Roads and for study by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, has shown that approximately $300 million was spent by out-of-state motorists in the Keystone State last year.

We hope that despite the long hot spell, and more recently the rains, that even a greater figure will be chalked up this year. Such good revenue means prosperity to thousands of persons who serve the tourist in our state.

The study revealed that about half of the travelers terminated their trips in Pennsylvania while the others kept rolling through. Of approximately 50 per cent who stayed over night or longer—or 4,800,000 roughly—57 per cent stayed in hotels, motels or tourist homes and the others visited friends or relatives. And it is interesting to note that of those using paid accommodations, 32 per cent patronized hotels, 58 per cent stayed at motels or cabins and 10 per cent, tourist homes.

Pennsylvania is a great state for tourists; and it will become increasingly so. We can, however, serve our motoring guests in far more appreciative fashion if we strive to show them better highway manners. Tourists will be more happy to visit a state when they know that every driver accepts the individual responsibility of driving safely and courteously. It's no fun at all to find one's self on strange highways bedeviled by speeders, compulsive passers and other individuals who have little or no concern for the safety even of themselves.

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

It's A Well-Paying Job

It used to be that the Presidency was a great honor but brought little revenue to the incumbent. Presidents used to find it hard to make ends meet out of the wages paid by the American government.

These days have changed. Under the Independent Offices Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953, the President of the United States gets $150,000, including an expense allowance of $50,000 on which he does not pay any income tax. That expense allowance is a sheer non-taxable gift, because the very next paragraph of the Act deals with salaries and expenses. The President gets $1,907,643 to cover salaries and expenses of the White House office, the total being expendable as he likes, on certificate from the President without further ado. Also the President's travel and entertainment expenses are not subject to audit.

The President is also allowed $1,000,000 to use at his discretion in emergency matters, like sending agents abroad for such purposes as he considers necessary. He also gets $341,200 plus $26,000 to take care of the White House and its grounds and some more traveling expenses.

Altogether, this is a goodly sum of money and out of it the President, even though he must spend a great deal of it, ought to be able to save a penny or so, which is more than most of us can do these days, particularly as we are squeezed between high taxes and the high cost of living.

The President's greatest advantage is having $50,000 of straight cash payment to which no income tax is applied. He is the only citizen of this country who enjoys this advantage. If he holds on to that money, he can save at least $200,000 in a four-year term, or $400,000 should he be re-elected. Today, hardly anybody can manage to save that kind of money on a salary. It is real riches.

In connection with the possibility of savings, I saw a table the other day which is most interesting:

"Chart, based on Bureau of Labor Statistics figures, shows how purchasing power of dollar has declined since 1935-39 base period."

	1935-39	1943	1946	1952
Food	$1.00	.72	.63	.45
Apparel	$1.00	.77	.63	.45
Rent	$1.00	.92	.91	.70
Home	$1.00	.79	.63	.49
Furnishings	$1.00	.79	.63	.49
Overall Consumer	$1.00	.81	.71	.53

The reason rent is so out of line is that rent control has more or less kept real estate from following the general economy of the nation. It has also had the effect of increasing the quantity of obsolescent buildings in most cities and has lessened the activity of private endeavor in real estate, except for life insurance companies which go into the building of architectural monstrosities known as "projects."

These are supposed to be low-renting but are generally so restricted to the private holdings of the owners and managers as to be, at times, unpleasant for dwelling purposes. Imagine not being permitted to drive a nail into a wall to hang a picture!

The fact is that the overall value of the American dollar is 53 cents and if we continue high government spending, it is bound to go lower. It is interesting that, according to this table, food has suffered most in the richest agricultural country in the world, the price of food going so high that in 1952, it is possible to get no more than 43 cents worth for the dollar.

This table reflects seriously on the actual value of wage increases, which, while they keep going up, do not produce more value in purchases. When the worker's wife takes a $10 bill to the market, she only gets $4.30 of food as compared with the 1935-39 period.

It would make an interesting debate if Messrs. Eisenhower and Stevenson could be got onto this subject: How do you plan to make a dollar in money equal a dollar in purchasing power?

Maybe one of them knows how to do it. If he does, he is worth what it costs to pay an America to be our President.

"Well," said the daughter, "I saw you put kisses next to their names."

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington, Aug. 17—Col. V. S. Hsiang, who didn't cross the border into Mexico when Chiang Kai-Shek asked Hsiang to account for $4,000,000 claimed by Nationalist China, wound up with the same attorneys who represent columnist Drew Pearson.

Hsiang acknowledges that Pearson and the Washington Post were sympathetic to his cause. Both have made careers of belittling Chiang Kai-Shek. But just how Hsiang wound up in the clientele of the Pearson law firm, Roberts and McInnis, which collected $44,000 for fees and expenses, was the subject of considerable sworn testimony before a Congressional committee on July 10 of this year.

Hsiang was asked by an investigator if he knew Pearson. He said he had met him and received an invitation to Pearson's house.

Q—"Did Attorney Roberts tell you that Drew Pearson wanted to talk with you?"

Hsiang: "No, I knew him before I met Roberts."

Q—"When this litigation came up, how did you come to engage the firm of Roberts and McInnis?"

Hsiang: "When I was fired, the column was written by Pearson, and I didn't expect such things to happen. So I met Drew Pearson. I was working desperately for an attorney because I never met any attorney in this country, and I could not ask the consultation of the attorney of the Chinese Air Force. Then I consulted Mr. Pearson, the chief editor of the Washington Post, who helped me to clean up our government, and Mrs. Ellison suggested I get"—this is the reason I met Drew Pearson, now I recall. He suggested, he said, "How about getting in touch with that man? He might help you?"

Q—"Did Pearson make a call from his house to Roberts?"

Hsiang: "Wait a minute. The connection is not very clear. The first contact was not through Pearson. The man working under him, Jack Anderson."

Q—"You got in touch with Roberts through Pearson or Anderson?"

Hsiang: "Yes, Anderson."

Francis Yuan, a close friend of Hsiang's and former employee of Gen. Mow, who was arrested last week in Mexico, subsequently went to work for the Roberts law office. She also knew Pearson, according to Hsiang's testimony. Later Hsiang was asked if he knew Alfred Friendly, a reporter for the Washington Post. Hsiang: "Is that the reporter in the Washington Post, Friendly? He is a very close friend of mine, and helped me to reveal the whole story in a series, how I cooperated with the U.S. government in disclosing corruption of the Commerce International of China. I am indebted to him very much."

In addition to the Nationalist funds, the committee is also seeking several boxes of records. Hsiang, in his testimony, stated that Mow had full authority to act in handling not only the cash left over in Chinese air force mission funds, but complete control of the records. He put it this way in his testimony:

"It is no secret at all, as far as my understanding of that. Gen. Mow had two weapons on his hands. One is all the secret documents, the second is the money. The aim of Chiang Kai-Shek was to try to disarm him because without one of these arms he could not struggle, fight for justice."

A committee investigator then asked, "If Mow has full authority to act, why did he go to Mexico?" Hsiang said that Mow had no choice after American courts had assumed jurisdiction in the case.

There are other aspects to the case of the Chinese cash and the armor-plated publicity campaign to discredit our Chinese ally on Formosa. Secret testimony before the committee at present reveals a rash of installations of safes in homes of various Chinese residents in Washington, D. C. One was installed at considerable expense by the Mosler Safe Company, according to testimony given the committee. A burglar alarm protects the installation and insurance company of officials were considered pickers when they refused to insure the contents for more than $100,000.

Short Story: The current Vogue introduces its first new artist in over a decade . . . Vogue's had only three in the past 20 years . . . The artist's sketches are signed "Brian" . . . He is a handsome young Englishman, Capt. Brian Stonehouse, MBE, who was awarded the title. Member of the British Empire for distinguished military service in World War II. Capt. Stonehouse volunteered for espionage work, was parachuted into Hitler-held France (early '42) and posed as a French painter (while working with the Maquis and radioing vital data back to the War Office in London) . . . In six months he was trapped by the Gestapo and sentenced to death on Christmas Eve.

For some mysterious reason the sentence was not executed . . . Instead, Stonehouse served a year in solitary at Fresnes (where Laval was executed) and was then shipped Westward to one after another of Hitler's horror camps.

Stonehouse was marked "Nacht und Nebel" (the Nazi signal for death) and each day, for three long years, he expected to die . . . When Gen. Patton's army opened Dachau, Capt. Stonehouse was saved, and he still doesn't know why the original death sentence wasn't carried out.

Europeans have often accused us of being a nation of sloganeers. "You people have slogans for everything," an Englishman said to me the other day. "Maybe it's just an expression of your mania for short cuts."

"You won't take the time to think out anything yourselves, so you use a lot of slogans."

"Well, it's all right with me. 'Be happy, go lucky' and 'no unpleasant aftertaste.'"

Today I am going to give you two more slogans, no matter what that darn Englishman said. Charles Jehlenger, dean of the American Academy of Dramatic Art and teacher of many stage and screen stars, died at the age of 86 a few days ago.

Among his pupils were Lauren Bacall, Jane Cowl, Nina Foch, Cecil B. DeMille, Kirk Douglas, Grace George, Margalo Gilmore, William Powell, Sam Levine, Agnes Moorehead, Edward Robinson, Joseph Schildkraut, Rosalind Russell, and many others of great repute.

Jehlenger hated tricks and affectations. He wanted his students to be natural, to be themselves. Whenever one of them put on a lot of theatrical "airs," "Jolly," as they affectionately called him, would exclaim:

"Don't act it! BE it!"

Katzkills . . . The emcee (arriving in the afternoon) went to the lake for a dip, where he was approached by a middle-aged stylish stout . . . "Are you a guest here?" she cooed . . . "No," said the emcee. "I'm here to emcee the show tonight."

"You should meet my Shirley," spoke mama. "Such a talented girl. Rides horseback like a jockey, swims like Esther Williams, plays golf like a regular Benny Hogan."

"Does she dance?" asked our Hero . . . "Like Rita Hayworth!"

"Tennis?" . . . "She's a wizard."

"Is she pretty?"

"If she was pretty would I bodder you?"

Eddie Condon reported that he was introduced to a literary critic at a cocktail party. The reviewer had the reputation for panning just about every tome ever written. After they shook hands, Eddie giggled: "Read any good books lately?"

That slogan is good not only for actors but for all of us.

There is entirely too much acting going on in this modern world of ours.

Keeping up with the Joneses is one form of acting. But I have talked about that before. However, I thought about it again when a bank teller in New York was sent to prison for two and a half years for wanting to keep up with the Joneses on a $47 per week income. They caught him with the boodle and a blonde in Los Angeles.

The other slogan is attributed to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt by Brig. General Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines.

On one of her trips, the general says, Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the New Delhi airport. When reporters asked her for a statement on the purpose of her journey, she merely said:

"I came to learn."

That, too, is a good slogan for Americans.

Too many of us, when we go on trips, come to brag or to convert the natives to our form of living.

We have a great habit of trying to make other people keep up with the Joneses—the Joneses in this case being us.

What we should do is to LEARN to understand THEIR viewpoint to see whether WE cannot benefit by THEIR traditions, THEIR customs, the way of life of other people and other cultures.

My friend the Englishman probably won't approve of my foisting two more slogans on you, but I think a combination of the two would be a pretty good asset for all of us.

"Don't act it! BE it!" and "I came to learn."

Hollywood — The movies' fourth version of "Les Miserables" (preceding ones were in 1918, '25 and '27) is handsomely produced and, for the most part, powerfully acted. It's heavy stuff, of course, and an hour and three-quarters long. See it when you're in a mood for meat-and-potatoes drama.

Twentieth Century-Fox has given the Victor Hugo classic a strong cast: Tall, slender, ex-galley slave who becomes mayor of a town and a hunted man again . . . Robert Newton as Javert, the merciless police officer who trails him . . . Edmund Gwenn as the priest who befriends the bitter ex-convict. Of these three Englishmen pretending to be French, by the way, Rennie is the most successful at soft-pedaling his native accent.

Debra Paget is adequate as the protegee with whom Valjean falls in love. Sylvia Sydney, after five years' absence from the screen, gives a strong portrayal of the girl's dying mother. Others include Cameron Mitchell as the girl's suitor, Elsa Lanchester as the priest's housekeeper, James Robertson as Valjean's right-hand man, and Joseph Wiseman as a galley slave . . . "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" portrays Catholic records of a vision reported by three children in Portugal in May, 1917. However you look upon it, it's a moving drama that is excellently acted and beautifully portrayed on Warner Brothers' own new color film.

William R. Thomas Takes Miss McDowell As Bride

The Stroudsburg Methodist Church was filled with music, flowers and friends on Saturday afternoon at 2, when Miss Mary Jane McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Byrd McDowell, of 2124 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg, became the bride of William R. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas, of 713 Brown St., Stroudsburg.

Rev. Roger C. Simmon, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony, and administered Holy Communion to the young couple before an altar banked with rhododendron and baskets of white gladioli.

Albert C. Fregans, minister of music at the Methodist church, was at the console of the organ, and Leonard Kramendunk, baritone in Fred Waring's Glee Club, was soloist, singing "Through the Years," "Because" before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the wedding prayers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white embroidered organza, with white embroidered organza collar outlining the off-the-shoulder neckline of the fitted bodice, and embroidered organza tiers forming the bouffant skirt which ended in a brief train. Her double veil of white illusion was attached to a tiny cap of embroidered organza and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Her attendants were in embroidered organza gowns of yellow and delphinium blue. Miss Evelyn McDowell, sister of the bride was in yellow organza, whose small jacket formed a portrait neckline.

The bridesmaids wore similar gowns of delphinium blue, and they all wore crowns of yellow and blue chrysanthemums which matched their fan-shaped bouquets from which fell showers of blue and gold chrysanthemums.

Miss Ellen Ann Coleman, of Stroudsburg; Miss Joyce Meekle, Westfield, N. J.; Miss Judith Gilling, Flemington, N. J.; and Miss June Fulcher, Arlington, N. J., were bridesmaids.

The small flower girls: Debbie Shinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Shinn, Echo Lake, and Susan Kunkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parke Kunkle, Stroudsburg, wore white organza gowns with off-the-shoulder necklines, puffed sleeves and blue sashes which matched their crowns of blue chrysanthemums. They carried flared baskets of yellow rose petals.

Donald Smith, of Port Jefferson, L. I., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was the best man, and the ushers were Albert DeRenzis, Bushkill, and William Kramer, Howard Guilg, and James Walton, Stroudsburg.

The bride's mother wore a gown of powder blue lace, halter-length, with a long sleeved jacket, and a tiny hat with sculptured lines in the same shade of blue, matching accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of mauve crepe with a picture hat of black velvet and black accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Glen Brook Country Club with the reception line on the patio, and the bridal table and buffet in the club dining room.

On the wide window sills, small dolls dressed in replicas of the wedding party made a miniature wedding scene. The bride's table was decorated with rhododendron and gladioli, and the buffet

Cornerstone Is Replaced At Shawnee Presbyterian Church, Built 200 Years

Shawnee—The minister, elders, trustees and congregation of Shawnee Presbyterian Church laid a cornerstone yesterday.

In impressive ceremonies, the church goers replaced the stone which had originally been installed when the present church was built in 1853. The church members celebrated the 200th anniversary of the Presbyterian church in the Delaware river community during June.

At that time, a box containing relics from the 1800's was removed from the stone and placed on display in the church.

The box had a companion piece yesterday when the stone was put back in its original position—a new box containing mementoes of the church as it stands now.

Among these souvenirs were a copy of "Presbyterian Life" with an article about the anniversary observation; a bulletin of services on Palm Sunday; the magazine "This Week in the Poconos" describing the bi-centennial celebration; a copy of the "Presbyterian Home News"; the anniversary booklet put out by the church; clippings from The Daily Record from June 19 to 28; copies of The New York Times and Philadelphia Inquirer; and an advertising circular for Shawnee Inn.

Rev. Robert Bradburn presided at the ceremonies which followed the regular Sunday services at the church.

Two Bandits Are Sought In Robbery

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—A police dragnet was extended throughout West Germany yesterday in the hunt for two bandits who escaped after this country's bloodiest bank robbery since the war.

Two bank employees were killed and another seriously injured when three bandits raided a bank at suburban Bockenheim shortly after noon yesterday.

One of the three, identified by police as Rudolf Kirchner, 28, was shot through the lung by his accomplices.

Police said their loot was less than 900 marks $214.

Walker Will Seek Floor Leadership

Pittsburgh (AP)—State Senator John M. Walker, a bitter foe of a proposed state income tax at the last session of the legislature, says he will be a candidate for re-election as Republican floor leader of the Senate when the legislature convenes in January.

Walker led a group of 10 senators in successfully opposing an income tax which was suggested by Gov. John S. Fine.

Walker was arrested nearby. After his capture, Kirchner told police he was shot after a quarrel over the question of whether the trio should join the Foreign Legion after a successful escape. Later investigation revealed that Kirchner was left behind in the flight on foot after he could no longer walk.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Officials of the Blue Mountain League were saved an embarrassing situation yesterday, when Manager John Schoonover and company withdrew their protest of the special fourth place playoff with Stockertown, after the Pocono A. C. entry in the circuit announced the game was being played under protest in the eighth inning, when a horrid bit of umpiring took place on the field, as Stockertown scored three times to wrap up an excellently played game from start to finish.

This column isn't being written to alibi for the Pocono A. C. setback, but rather to point out once again the importance of officiating plays in modern sports. I have long waved the flag for Leonard Renaldo as the best umpire in the Blue Mountain League, and I will continue to do so, although he and his partner, "Duke" Jones, were caught with their guards down yesterday, especially during the eighth inning.

The play and the manner in which it was handled was probably the poorest bit of baseball that this writer has witnessed since these old legs became sturdy enough to enable me to peep through a carefully prepared knot-hole in the fence. Stockertown had scored two times and had runners on first and third, with two batters having been retired. Phil Ciarrocchi, the winning pitcher, attempted a delayed steal of second and John Polzer broke from third and slid across the plate on a close play.

Drew then fired to third, where Harold Freeman in turn tossed to second, where it was obvious to every soul in the stands that Ciarrocchi was out by a yard. Obvious to everyone in the stands, but not to the umpires. Jones had his back to the play, although Ciarrocchi was the only runner on the base, and to make the situation even more unbelievable, Jones, according to the Pocono A. C. infielders, had informed them that there were three outs and no play was needed at second.

However, as everyone in the park realized, spectators that is, there were only two out, unless the runner at second had been retired. Jones had to admit that he didn't see the play and although Renaldo apparently aimed in the general direction of second, he too said that he hadn't witnessed the play, although at first it appeared as if the two men-in-blue had ruled the runner out at second.

In the heat of the argument that followed the outlandish bit of umpiring, Pocono A. C. decided to protest the game and certainly rightfully so. However, after the game the A. C. contingent, having had no luck with protests to date and being without a run, decided to withdraw the protest, as it takes runs to win a ball game.

However, the situation should show even those umpires who weren't in the action yesterday just how important it is to keep on their toes at every minute. If yesterday's questionable play had resulted in the only run of the game, it could have brought down a full season's work on the heads of Pocono A. C. or Stockertown for that matter. However, with a final play at stake in such a playoff, three umpires at work could very easily be the remedy to the situation.

Tobyhanna Moves Into Tie For Top Spot In Association

Tobyhanna—Tobyhanna moved into a three-way tie for first place in the Pocono Mountain Association with Newfoundland and Daleville yesterday, as the charges of Manager "Candy" Daley took the measure of South Canaan, 3-0, and Maple Lake, 4-3, in a doubleheader played here on the Coolbaugh High school field.

Pitchers
Spencer "Spence" Walker worked the distance in the first campaign for Tobyhanna and scattered three singles over the route for South Canaan, while his mates pounded out an even dozen.

Al Schuch went the route in the second contest, as Tobyhanna scored four times in the third round to win, while Maple Lake picked up two markers in the fourth and a singleton in the seventh.

Scoring
The Tannersville contingent won the opener, 13-6, and the nightcap, 6-0.

Three Runs In Eighth Inning Decide Issue

Stockertown—Stockertown rose up with three runs in the bottom of the eighth inning here yesterday to eliminate Pocono A. C. from fourth place and a spot in the post-season Blue Mountain League flag race yesterday, with a 3-0 victory on the winning club's home grounds.

Manager John Schoonover and Phil Ciarrocchi matched pitch for pitch through the first seven frames, with one threat by Stockertown being the only scoring opportunity missed by either team during the first seven rounds.

Andy Donello, Stockertown shortstop, opened the fatal eighth with a topped single down the third base line and went to second on another single by Bill Hann. Both runners moved up a notch and all hands were safe when John Schoonover failed to field Ed Miller's bunt. Donello slid safely over the plate on John Polzer's fielder's choice roller. Hann came across the plate with the second run on a squeeze play, with Quintus Rotzell dropping a bunt down the first base line.

Final Run
Phil Ciarrocchi forced Rotzell at second, but Polzer went to third on the play. On an attempted run down of Ciarrocchi between first and second, Polzer slid safely across the plate with the third run of the inning and the game.

Stockertown's only other threat came in the sixth round, when the host club filled the bases with nobody out. However, Schoonover fanned Miller and Polzer and got Rotzell on a ball hit back to the mound.

Pocono A. C. failed to advance a runner beyond second base and Bob Schick was the only visiting runner to reach the midway station.

The visiting Pocono A. C. contingent was held to three hits and Stockertown reached Schoonover for five. Schoonover walked the first batter for Stockertown and that was the only free ticket to first base in the game.

Stockertown, with fourth place clinched, now tangles with Roseto at Roseto, on Tuesday.

Yankees Score In Ninth To Gain Nod Over Red Sox, 3-2

Boston (AP) — Yogi Berra's ninth inning leadoff double and a single by Gene Woodling gave the American League leading New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday dropping the third-place Soxers five and one-half games behind the Yankees.

It gave the Yankees a 2-1 edge in this four-game set. All three contests have been won by one run.

The Red Sox had come from behind to tie the score 2-2 in the sixth inning against Eddie Lopat—who made his first starting appearance for the world champions in more than a month. Tommy Gorman worked the last three innings for New York and gained credit for his fourth victory against one loss.

New York went ahead 2-0 in the third frame with two unearned runs off starter Mel Parnell. The left-hander got Gil Me-

Douglas to pop out but Joe Collins bounced a single off Billy Goodman's chest and then stole second.

Lopat grounded to shortstop Johnny Ligon, but Ligon's throw to third baseman George Kell in an attempt to get Collins went wild, Collins scoring and Lopat reaching second. Billy Martin singled, Lopat taking third, and then Phil Rizzuto's outfield fly scored Lopat.

The Red Sox came right back in their third as "Hot" Evers' outfield fly counted Goodman.

Boston tied the score in the sixth when Dick Gernert tallied on Ligon's ground out.

Parnell, now 9-7, gave up a double to Berra to open the ninth. After "Hank" Bauer fled out, Woodling singled the hustling catcher home.

Munday Opens Defense Of Crown Today

Shawnee-on-Deleware — Rod Munday, Country Club of York, defending champion, and five other former champions, will be in the field of 85 pros participating in the Philadelphia District PGA championship tournament, which starts today over the Shawnee Inn and Country Club course here.

An 18-hole qualifying round will determine the 63 players, who with defending champion Munday will start match play tomorrow. Sam Davis, Woodcrest C.C.; Clarence Ehresman, Ashburne C.C.; Bud Lewis, Manufacturers C.C.; Matt Kowal, Philmont C.C., and Henry Williams Jr., Berkleigh C.C., are the other former titleholders who will be trying to regain the title.

Title Match
Munday defeated Williams in the 36-hole finals last year. Both are among the favorites to reach the finals again this year.

Rod Munday, defending champion and Harry Obitz, home pro, will automatically be seeded to the match play rounds.

Bushkill Nips Lake Harmony

Lake Harmony—Bushkill's output of runs in four innings was one more than Lake Harmony could produce in two frames, as the charges of Danny Epley accounted for an 8-7 victory, here on the home grounds of the losing contingent yesterday.

Epley opened on the hill for Bushkill and worked the first five frames. Russell "Lindy" Transue pitched the sixth and seventh and Ray Steele hurled the last two rounds. Steele walked one batter and fanned three during his tour of duty.

Big Spurt
Lake Harmony used a big five-run spurt to open its scoring in the second and then added two more in the fourth.

Bushkill overcame this scoring by picking up a singleton in the first, two in the second, three in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Lake Harmony, on the short end of the scoring, had the better of the hitting, 11-10.

JEANNE MADDEN, lyric coloratura soprano and star of movies and Broadway musicals, will give a recital at the South Sterling Methodist Church Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Jeanne Madden Will Sing At Church Recital Aug. 27

South Sterling—Jeanne Madden, lyric coloratura soprano, will be heard in a recital in the Methodist church here Wednesday, August 27, at 8 p.m.

Miss Madden achieved stardom in both motion pictures and on the Broadway stage as well as having done considerable work in opera and on the concert stage.

Others participating in the recital, which is sponsored by the Woman's Society for Christian Service of the church, will be Henry Hensinger, organist and chorister of the Salem Lutheran church, Bethlehem, Edwin Frey and Rosalie Adams, church organists and Hazel Browning MacDougall, Miss Madden's accompanist, in piano selections.

Miss Madden is the daughter of the late Harry Madden, a former local resident who was well-known in musical circles throughout Pennsylvania and the eastern United States.

Her early training in music included not only steady work on her voice but also many years of study with the cello, violin and piano. At the age of 16 she became a protégée of Quenna Mario, famous prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, and devoted herself wholly to rigorous preparation for a career as a singer.

By the time Warner Brothers took her to Hollywood to play opposite Dick Powell in "Stage Struck" she had already had considerable experience in concert and oratorio work. After making three pictures she returned to New York for more work in preparation for operatic roles.

Miss Madden played opposite Walter Huston in "Knickerbocker Holiday", Maxwell Anderson's musical play which enjoyed long runs on Broadway and on the road. She has sung the leading roles in many operas and has appeared with the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra and with the Chicago Opera company.

In combining opera roles with concerts, Miss Madden has developed a costume group which includes those originally worn by Geraldine Farrar and Quenna Mario. These costumes were entrusted to Miss Madden with assurance that she would carry on the great traditions.

There will be no admission charge for the recital. A silver offering will be taken.

Trade Board Files Protest Against Road

Portland—Board of Trade members voted last week to write a letter to their state senator about the condition of the Portland-Delaware Water Gap road.

An object of concern to motorists and residents of the borough for many months, the Board took definite action on a motion at its last meeting to write to Sen. Yanko, Bethlehem, concerning the road's present state of disrepair.

Discussion at the meeting, held at Otto's Grandview, centered on the stretch of highway connecting the two boroughs, a part of Route 611 and a letter from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad.

The letter from the rail company informed the board that the firm was considering the possibility of removing a coal trestle from its present location in the town.

Following discussion of these two subjects, the board members set about scheduling the annual banquet.

It was decided the banquet should be held this year on Oct. 30.

Otto Hochrein was appointed chairman of a committee to decide on the place to hold the dinner. Henry Webb will serve as entertainment chairman with Orville Miller in charge of ticket sales and programs under the joint chairmanship of Frank Fitzgerald and C. Raymond Fuller.

The September meeting will be under the supervision of Frank Fitzgerald who will announce the meeting place at a later date.

Steel Strike Affects DPA

The steel strike continued to show an effect on State public assistance rolls during the month of July, the Department of Public Assistance announced yesterday.

For the first time in two years, public assistance grants increased instead of declining on the State-wide level, the Department said.

An overall increase of $370,000 for General Assistance (which includes payments for unemployment) was noted for the month of July.

This was offset slightly by decreases in old-age, aid to dependent children and disabled assistance—a decrease of $60,000 as a whole for the period.

This overall decrease in the three categories lowered the actual increase to $310,000 for July. Total expenditures by the Department were $9,754,000 for the month. Of this total the Federal Government paid $3,987,000 or 41 per cent with the State paying the remaining $5,767,000 or 59 per cent.

Cash grants to those on public assistance rolls accounted for $8,094,000 or 83 per cent of the amount expended.

Fossils of animals which died in the sea are much more often preserved than those which died on land.
